To our Clients, Colleagues, and Friends:

As the virus outbreak continues to evolve and the lack of clarity on its impact persists, Lally & Co., LLC has implemented important measures to ensure the safety of our employees and the clients that we serve. Our office has invested heavily in technology, training, and a culture to provide a safe and flexible working environment without sacrificing client service. Many of our professionals will be telecommuting over the next few weeks while others have established a safe working protocol within our office. Our technology provides each of our staff with the tools to continue with uninterrupted service to our clients.

We expect to prepare and process tax returns and financial statements in an efficient and seamless manner. Our electronic delivery system will ensure that your project is completed and delivered on-time. It appears inevitable that the April 15th filing deadline will be extended. While we intend to take advantage of the extended filing date, we remain committed to filing as many tax returns as possible by April 15th. Please continue to forward your tax information in the normal fashion.

These are challenging times. We believe we are well-prepared to meet these challenges and continue to deliver the service that you have come to expect. If you should have any questions, we can be reached by telephone or office email. Each of our staff have direct access to office emails 24/7.

Please be safe and keep the health of your family at the forefront in these uncertain times.

Thanks,

Lally & Co., LLC
